Further we drive to Kande (1700 mtrs) the starting point of trek to Australian Camp.

The Mount Annapurna region is located in north-central Nepal and its expanse covers a 55-kilometers long massif as well as the valleys, rivers and foothills. It includes thirty peaks higher than 6,000 meters over which towers the Annapurna I (8,091 meters) – the tenth highest summit in the world and tenth out of fourteen eight-thousanders. The mountain was reached for the first time by Maurice Herzog in 1950, making it the first successful climb on the peak over 8,000 meters in history. The region is enclosed by the Marshyangdi River on the east, the Kali Gondaki Gorge on the west and the Pokhara Valley on the south, whereas the north of the Annapurna area is defined by the Nepal-Tibetan border. According to Hindu mythology the mountain is a residence of Annapurna, goddess of nourishment who provides her people food and water.

Australian Camp is a popular viewpoint located in the Kaski District of Nepal, near the city of Pokhara. It is situated at an elevation of 2,050 meters (6,726 feet) and offers stunning panoramic views of the Annapurna mountain range, including Annapurna South, Hiunchuli, Machhapuchhre (Fishtail), and Lamjung Himal.

The trek to Australian Camp is relatively easy and can be completed in a few hours. The trail passes through dense forests, beautiful terraced fields, and traditional Gurung villages. Along the way, trekkers can observe the local culture and lifestyle of the region.
